Are you tired of searching the Internet for important medical information only to find that it is difficult to determine which of the thousands of sites and articles apply to your situation? Our physicians will provide you the information you need and will also provide links to information sites that they have already reviewed for application to your personal situation. There is no more guessing, just the peace of mind that comes from knowing that a board-certified physician has selected the right information for your situation.

Wouldn't it be nice to have a physician-coach at your fingertips to help you decide when you needed to see the doctor and what you should do if an office visit isn't necessary? You could save time and money. With

What eDocAmerica Users are Saying

"Thanks so much for all your help. There is no telling how many office visits you have saved us by directing us to the proper specialist for my son's problem."

"You sent me a long list of frequently asked questions. I feel like this saved me numerous tests and expense, also kept me from taking "trial" drugs as doctors tried to determine the cause. I certainly urge others to use this valuable tool."

"Based on the eDoc's advice, my husband went to his doctor and was diagnosed with a sleep disorder. This disorder was causing him to have high blood pressure and lots of other problems. The eDoc added many years to my husband's life."
